McGill University (1999)
Introduction to Linguistics (undergraduate)

Other teaching:
I supervised six Honors Specialization in Linguistics students.
I supervised one USRI student in the summer of 2022.
In December 2020, I gave an on-line guest lecture to a syntax class at the University of Southern Mindanao (Philippines).
In April 2017 and July 2018, I co-taught two one-day graduate seminars in Madagascar. We covered topics such as how to choose a subject, formulating a hypothesis, presenting an argument and writing an outline.
In April 2013, I taught a linguistics seminar in Antsiranana, Madagascar over the course of three days. We covered basic notions of syntax from a generative perspective. I also taught a second (two-day) seminar in Antananarivo, Madagascar on the topic of linguistic micro-variation.
Finally, I ran a week-long session on field methods in linguistics in Mahajanga, Madagascar.

OTHER CONTRIBUTIONS TO THE UNIVERSITY:
Director, MA in Linguistics
The MA program underwent review in 2020-2021. I prepared meetings with faculty members and a focus group and survey for students. I wrote the brief, which was submitted in June 2020. The assessors visited (remotely) in March 2021. The program received a "good" evaluation – the highest possible.
Co-director, Interfaculty Program in Linguistics
The Linguistics program underwent review for the first time in 2017-2018; in 2016-2017, the other co-director and I attended workshops and information sessions about the review, organized meetings with faculty members, and designed an online survey and focus group questions for students. We wrote the brief and submitted it in October 2017; the assessors visited campus in March 2018. The program received a "good" evaluation – the highest possible.
Nice coordinator (2015-2016)
I was the on-site coordinator for the Nice exchange. There were 21 students who participated (one left in December). As well as teaching, I assisted them with the registration process at the university (both the "inscriptions administratives" and the "inscriptions aux épreuves") and with choosing their courses. I also helped coordinate their participation in the English language club at the university. Finally, I organized a dozen outings for the students, in Nice and beyond.
